

Teachers! Looking for continuing education credits this summer?
We have a course for you!

Biology 700 – Watershed Science: The Red River Basin

This is a 3 credit online class taught through Valley City State University via a Blackboard Web portal. June 4th to July 6th, 2007

Instructor:

Dr. Andre DeLorme, Director,
VCSU Macroinvertebrate Lab

The class will consist of three units:

- Unit 1: Description of the basin
- Unit 2: Abiotic components of the basin
- Unit 3: Biotic components and the concept of Biomonitoring

Requirements:

You will need access to a computer with internet connection.
Your computer should have Power Point and Word software.
Attend two lab day (6 hours each) in Valley City, ND (60 miles west of Fargo):
Saturday, June 16, 2007
Saturday, June 30, 2007

For more information go to:

www.vcsu.edu/extend/vp.htm?p=782
and use the Professional Development links.

To register go to:

www.vcsu.edu/extend/vp.htm?p=892

To get a copy of the syllabus go to:

http://community.vcsu.edu/facultypages/andre.delorme/My_Webpage/vp.htm?p=352
Any questions, email Dr. DeLorme at andre.delorme@vcsu.edu

Development of this class was funded by a National Science Foundation Grant to the International Water Institute.